Short Answer Questions

Indicate how each event affects the elements of financial statements. Use the following letters to record your answer in the box shown below each element. You do not need to enter amounts.

Increase = I

Decrease = D

No Effect = N

1. Jenkins Co. performed services for customers on account.

Assets	Liabilities	Equity	Revenues	Expenses	Net Income	Cash

(I) (N) (I) (I) (N) (I) (N)

Feedback: Performing services on account increases assets (accounts receivable) and increases revenue, which increases net income and equity (retained earnings). It does not affect the statement of cash flows, as it does not affect cash.

Feedback: Collecting a payment in advance from a customer increases assets (cash) and increases liabilities (unearned revenue). It does not affect the income statement. Revenue will not be recognized until the services are provided. It will be reported as a cash inflow from operating activities on the statement of cash flows.

The balance in accounts receivable represents the amount of future cash receipts that is due from customers. In other words, it is the amount to be collected from customers who previously received goods or services on account.

Feedback: Accounts receivable is an asset account because it represents something that is owed to the company.

11. Why are adjusting entries necessary in an accrual accounting system? What are some common examples?

Adjusting entries are necessary in order to recognize revenues and expenses that should be recognized in the current year, but have not yet been recorded. Some common adjusting entries include recognizing accrued salaries expense, accrued interest revenue, and deferred expenses, such as prepaid rent, as well as recognizing revenue that had been previously unearned.

Feedback: The Matching Principle requires adjusting entries in certain transactions in order to recognize revenues and expenses in the proper accounting period. These adjusting entries are made at the end of the period.

12. What effect does the recording of revenue normally have on total assets?

The recording of revenue normally has the effect of increasing total assets (usually cash or accounts receivable).

Feedback: If revenue is earned at the same time cash is collected, cash is increased. If revenue is earned on account, and a customer is billed, accounts receivable is increased. A less common situation involves earning revenue after cash was received in advance, in which case assets are unaffected (liabilities decrease and equity increases).

Permanent accounts include the balance sheet accounts (assets, liabilities, common stock and retained earnings), and their balances roll forward each year rather than being closed out.

Feedback: Revenue and expense accounts appear on the income statement. Dividends is also a temporary account, but is not reported on the income statement. It is reported only on the statement of changes in equity. All permanent accounts appear on the balance sheet.

17. Explain the meaning of the term, "matching concept."

The "matching concept" refers to the process of "matching" the expenses with the revenues that they produce in the appropriate time period. This matching is largely done through the adjusting process. For example, the accrual of salary expense has the effect of matching the correct portion of salary expense to the accounting period in which the employees contributed to producing revenue. Matching means that expenses should be recognized in the same accounting period as the revenues that they helped a business to earn.

Feedback: The matching concept is the foundation of accrual accounting - the recognition of revenues as they are earned and expenses as they are incurred, regardless of when cash is exchanged.

____ e) The retained earnings balance at the end of any given year is equal to that year's net income.

a) T b) F c) F d) T e) F Feedback: a) This is true. The closing process transfers the balances in revenue, expense, and dividend accounts to retained earnings at the end of the period.

b) This is false. Dividends are closed, but do not appear on the income statement.

c) This is false. Temporary accounts are also called nominal accounts.

d) This is true. All balance sheet, or permanent, accounts contain cumulative information.

e) This is false. Because the retained earnings account accumulates earnings from year to year, its balance is not equal to net income in any particular year.

____ a) Recording the usage of supplies involves a decrease in assets and a decrease in equity.

____ b) The accrual of salaries is considered a claims exchange transaction.

____ c) Recording services performed on a prepaid contract involves a decrease in liabilities and an increase in assets.

____ d) End of period adjustments never affect cash flows.

____ e) Failure to record accrued salaries at the end of the year will cause reported income to be higher than it should have been.

a) T b) T c) F d) T e) T Feedback: a) This is true. Recording usage of supplies decreases assets (supplies) and increases expense, which decreases equity.

b) This is true. Accruing salaries increases a liability (salaries payable) and decreases equity (salaries expense decreases retained earnings).

c) This is false. Recording service performed on a prepaid contract involves a decrease in liabilities (unearned revenue) and an increase in revenue, which increases equity. Assets are not affected.

d) This is true. End of period adjustments never affect the cash account, therefore never affect cash flows.

e) This is true. Failure to record accrued salaries would understate salaries expense, causing reported income to be higher than it should have been.

117. Thiessen Company started its business by issuing $7,000 of common stock on January 1, 2013. The company performed $18,000 of service for customers on account in 2013. It collected $12,500 of this amount in 2013, recorded expenses on account of $14,500, paid $11,000 of the payables owed, and paid a $300 dividend to the stockholders.

Required:

- a) What is the amount of total assets at the end of 2013?
- b) What is the amount of cash on hand at the end of 2013?
- c) What is the net income for 2013?
- d) Prepare a balance sheet for 2013.

a) $$7,000 + 18,000 - 11,000 - 300 = $13,700$ Total assets

b) $$7,000 + 12,500 - 11,000 - 300 = $8,200$ Cash on hand

c) $$18,000 - 14,500 = $3,500$ Net income

119. Consider the following independent scenarios:

a) At January 1, 2013, accounts receivable was $22,000. Cash collected on accounts receivable during 2011 was $15,000. At December 31, 2011, accounts receivable was $30,000.

What were the revenues earned on account during 2011?

b) At January 1, 2013, accounts payable was $19,000. During 2013, expenses on account were $28,000. At December 31, 2013, accounts payable was $15,000.

What was the amount of cash paid on accounts payable during 2013?

c) At January 1, 2013, the balance in the prepaid insurance account was $480. On March 1, 2013, the company paid $2,940 for insurance coverage for the next 12 months. What was the amount of insurance expense for 2013?

d) At January 1, 2013, the balance in the supplies account was $550. At December 31, 2013, the company counted $600 of supplies on hand. The company reported supplies expense in 2013 of $2,300. What was the total of supplies purchases during 2013?

a) $$22,000 \text{ beg. AR} + X \text{ rev. on acct.} - $15,000 \text{ cash coll. on AR} = $30,000 \text{ end.}$

AR

$X = $23,000$

b) $$19,000 \text{ beg. AP} + $28,000 \text{ exp. on acct.} - X \text{ cash paid on AP} = $15,000 \text{ end.}$

$X = $32,000$

c) $$480 \text{ insurance expense for Jan. and Feb.} + $2,450 \text{ for March-December}$
 $($2,940/12 \text{ months} \times 10 \text{ months}) = $2,930 \text{ insurance expense}$

120. Washington Co. began operations on January 1, 2013, by issuing $10,000 in common stock to the stockholders. On March 1, 2013, Washington accepted an advance of $18,000 to provide services for a one-year period beginning April 1. During 2013, services in the amount of $16,000 were provided to customers on account, and 80% of this amount was collected by year-end. During 2013, operating expenses incurred on account were $12,000, and 60% of this amount was paid by year-end. During the year, Washington paid $600 to purchase supplies. By year-end, $540 of the supplies had been used. Dividends to stockholders were $1,000 during the year. During 2013, Washington paid salaries of $14,000, and on December 31, 2013, the company accrued salaries of $1,400.

Washington recorded all appropriate adjusting entries at year end.

- 1) What would Washington report for service revenue for 2013?
- 2) What would Washington report for salaries expense for 2013?
- 3) What would Washington report for supplies expense for 2013?
- 4) What would the amount be for net cash flows from operating activities for 2013?
- 5) What is the net income for 2013?
- 6) What would the balance in the retained earnings account be at December 31, 2013?

1) $$16,000 \text{ rev. on account} + ($18,000 \times 9/12) \text{ rev. earned on contract} = $29,500$
Rev.

2) $$14,000 \text{ salaries expense paid} + $1,400 \text{ accrued salaries at year end} =$

139. Garrison Company purchased a delivery van on January 1, 2013 for $20,000. The van is estimated to have a 5-year useful life and a $4,000 salvage value. How much expense should Garrison recognize in 2013 related to the use of the van?

A. $16,000

B. $3,200

C. $20,000

D. $4,000

($20,000 cost - $4,000 salvage value)/5 year useful life = $3,200 depreciation expense

- A. Recording interest that has been earned but not received.
- B. Recording supplies that have been purchased with cash but not yet used.
- C. Recording revenue that has been earned but not yet collected in cash.
- D. Recording salaries owed to employees at the end of the year that will be paid during the following year.

Recording the purchase of supplies constitutes a deferral because it involves the payment of cash before an expense (in this case, supplies expense) is recognized.

- A. An increase in assets
- B. An increase in liabilities
- C. A decrease in assets
- D. A decrease in liabilities

Recognizing depreciation expense involves a decrease in assets due to an increase in the contra-asset accumulated depreciation and a decrease in equity due to recognizing depreciation expense.

Accounts receivable	$ 2,700
Equipment	$10,000
Accumulated depreciation	$ 3,200
Accounts payable	$ 2,800

Based on this information alone the amount of Ji's retained earnings is

- A. $11,600.
- B. $5,200.
- C. $17,200.
- D. None of the above.

Assets ($4,500 + $2,700 + $10,000 - $3,200) = Liabilities ($2,800) + Equity ($6,000 + Retained Earnings); Retained Earnings = $5,200

- A. Accrual of salary expense at year-end.
- B. Cash paid for interest on a note payable.
- C. Payments of cash dividends to the owners of the business.
- D. Purchase of equipment for cash.

Paying or receiving interest is considered an operating activity. Accruing salary expense is not a cash flow. Paying dividends is a financing activity, and purchasing equipment is an investing activity.

During the year, the company accrued an additional $200 of interest expense, and paid off the note with interest. On the company's 2013 income statement, cash flows for financing activities related to the note would be:

- A. $600 outflow
- B. $10,000 outflow
- C. $10,200 outflow
- D. $10,600 outflow

Only the $10,000 principle would be considered an outflow for financing activities. The $600 interest paid is considered an operating activity.

- A. Recognized depreciation expense on equipment.
- B. Incurred operating expenses on account.
- C. Paying interest on a note that was accrued in a prior year.
- D. All of the above are correct.

Recognizing depreciation expense reduces net income, but does not affect cash flows for operating activities. Incurring operating expenses on account also reduces net income, but does not affect cash flows for operating activities. Paying interest that was accrued in a prior year will reduce cash flows for operating activities, but will not affect net income.

- A. $13,000
- B. $9,750
- C. $10,500
- D. $7,500

The amount of assets related to the machine on December 31 would be the machine's book value (cost minus accumulated depreciation). ($$13,000 \text{ cost} - $3,000 \text{ salvage value}$)/4 year useful life = $2,500 annual depreciation expense. Book value = $$13,000 - $2,500 = $10,500$.

Essay Questions

151. Thornrose Company started its business on January 1, 2013 by issuing $5,000 of common stock. On January 1, the company purchased a computer for $3,500. The computer is estimated to have a 3-year useful life and a $500 salvage value. On March 1, Thornrose issued a $9,000, 6% 5-year note to Community Bank. Customers paid Thornrose $18,000 for service performed in 2013. The company paid $11,000 for operating expenses, and paid a $300 dividend to the stockholders. At year-end, Thornrose recognized interest expense on the note and depreciation expense on the computer.

Required:

- a) What is the amount of interest expense Thornrose will recognize in 2013?
- b) What is the book value of the computer at the end of 2013?
- c) What is the net income for 2013?
- d) Prepare a balance sheet for 2013.

a) $$9,000 \times 6\% \times 10/12 = \450 interest expense

b) Depreciation expense = $($3,500 - $500)/3 = $1,000$; Book value = $$3,500 - $1,000 = $2,500$

c) $$18,000 - $11,000 - $1,000 - $450 = $5,550$ Net income
