

CHAPTER 2: Financial Statement Audits and Auditors' Responsibilities

QUESTIONS

True/False

REQUIRED: For each of the following items, indicate whether it is (T) True or (F) False. For those marked "False," identify the error(s) and indicate the change or changes that are needed to make the statement true.

1. The primary objective of auditing is to add credibility to the financial statements prepared by management.
2. Auditing is not possible in the absence of verifiable data.
3. Compliance with "Statements on Auditing Standards" is mandatory for all auditors.
4. The training called for by the first general standard comes solely from practical experience.
5. The second general standard likens the auditor's role in an audit to the role of an attorney in a legal case.
6. No provisions exist for meeting the first reporting standard when a company uses a comprehensive basis of accounting other than GAAP.
7. The third general standard requires the auditor to act in good faith and not to be negligent in an audit.
8. The fourth reporting standard requires the auditor to express an opinion either on the financial statements taken as a whole or on selected major components of the financial statements.
9. In most cases, when disclosure in the financial statements is considered inadequate, the auditor's report must include the necessary disclosures.
10. The concepts of materiality and risk affect the application of auditing standards.
11. The auditing standards are more applicable to audits of public companies than to audits of nonpublic companies.
12. The main purpose of the audit committee is to monitor the competence of the external auditors during the course of the engagement.
13. Auditing procedures are the methods used and the acts performed by the auditor during an audit.
14. It is permissible under GAAS for the internal auditor to provide direct assistance to the independent auditor.
15. The internal auditor is responsible for the preparation of the financial statements.
16. The auditor's report should make explicit reference to the management responsibility for the financial statements.
17. In the opinion paragraph, reference is made to the listed financial statements, but their names are not repeated.

18. A disclaimer of opinion may be substituted for an adverse opinion.
19. The concept of reasonable assurance does not guarantee the accuracy of the financial statements.
20. In the case of a very material departure from GAAP, the best course of action is usually to disclaim an opinion.
21. Auditors are responsible for planning and performing an audit to obtain reasonable assurance that the financial statements are free of material misstatement.
22. SAS 82, Consideration of Fraud in a Financial Statement Audit, states that the auditor's interest specifically relates to fraudulent acts that cause material misstatements in financial statements.
23. When the auditor concludes that the financial statements are materially misstated and are not prepared in accordance with GAAP, the auditor should revise the financial statements.
24. SAS 82 essentially makes the audit report a guarantee.
25. SAS 54, Illegal Acts by Clients, indicates that the auditor's responsibility for misstatements resulting from illegal acts having a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts is the same as for errors or fraud.
26. The auditor's responsibility for illegal acts that have an indirect effect on the financial statements is restricted to information that comes to his or her attention.
27. An audit made in accordance with GAAS provides strong assurance that all illegal acts will be detected.
28. The payment of a bribe is an example of an error.
29. Fair presentation of financial statements in accordance with GAAP is not a guarantee of the continuation of an entity as a going concern.
30. If management concludes adequate disclosures in the financial statements concerning the entity's ability to continue as a going concern, the auditor would issue a qualified opinion on the financial statements with an additional paragraph explaining the going concern uncertainty.
31. The auditor of a public company is responsible for issuing more opinions than the auditor of private company.
32. The accounting profession is developing a narrower array of assurance services.
33. ASB refers to the Auditing Standards Board.
34. SAS refers to the Statements on Auditing Services.
35. The ASB has members that represent small and large practice units, state boards of accountancy, academic, government, and the public.
36. GAAS are applicable in each financial statement audit made by an independent auditor regardless of the entity's size, form of business organization, or type of industry.
37. The reader of a private company financial statement obtains reasonable assurance about the system of internal control over financial reporting.
38. The auditors report on internal control over financial reporting that goes to the public must report material weaknesses in internal controls.

Answers — Short Answer 2-1

1. Type of service performed("We have audited")
2. Management's assertion that it maintained an effective system of internal control was audited
3. Name of entity audited
4. Dates of the assertion regarding internal control
5. Management's responsibility for the assertion
6. Reference to COSO criteria for internal control
7. Auditor's responsibility for the opinion

Short Answer 2-2 (10 minutes)

During a financial statement audit, the auditor maintains professional relationships with four important groups. Briefly explain each of these relationships.

Answers — Short Answer 2-2

- (a) Management — From an auditing standpoint, management refers to the company officers, controller, and key supervisory personnel. During the course of an audit, there is extensive interaction between the auditor and management.

The auditor often requires confidential data about the entity while obtaining evidence, and it is therefore imperative to have a relationship based on mutual respect and trust. The approach the auditor should take towards management's assertions may be characterized as one of professional skepticism.

- (b) Board of directors and audit committee – A corporation's board of directors is responsible for ensuring that the firm is operated in the best interest of the stockholders. When the board is mostly made up of company officers, the auditor's relationship with the board and management is the same. When the board has some outside members, the board (or a designated audit committee composed exclusively or primarily of outside board members) can serve as an intermediary between the auditor and management.

Today, public company audit committees must have individuals with significant accounting knowledge.. Audit committee functions include:

- (1) Appointment, compensation and oversight of the public accounting firm to conduct the annual audit.
- (2) Establishing procedures for the receipt, retention, and treatment of complaints received by the company regarding internal controls and auditing.
- (3) Discussing the scope of the audit with the auditor.
- (4) Inviting direct auditor communication on major problems encountered during the course of the audit.
- (5) Reviewing the financial statements and the auditor's report with the auditor on completion of the engagement.

The audit committee also plays an important role in strengthening the auditor's ability to apply the appropriate professional skepticism in an engagement.

- (c) Internal auditors – An independent auditor normally has a close working relationship with the client's internal auditors, and has a direct interest in the work of internal auditors that pertains to the client's internal control structure. It is also permissible for internal auditors to provide direct assistance to the external auditor in performing a financial statement audit.

The internal auditor's work cannot be used as a substitute for the external auditor's work, but it can be an important complement. In determining the effect of such work on the audit, the independent auditor should:

- (1) consider the competence and objectivity of the internal auditor and
 - (2) evaluate the quality of the internal auditor's work.
- (d) Stockholders – Stockholders rely on audited financial statements for assurance that management has properly discharged its stewardship responsibility, and the auditor therefore has a serious responsibility to stockholders as the primary users of the audit report. During the course of an engagement, auditors are not likely to have direct personal contact with stockholders who are not officers, key employees, or directors of the client, but may attend the annual stockholders' meeting and answer stockholders' questions.

Short Answer 2-3 (10 minutes)

The second standard of field work requires the auditor to "understand the entity and its environment, including internal control." List the five different areas this standard requires the auditor to understand.

Answers — Short Answer 2-3

1. The entity's industry, regulatory, and other external factors.
2. The nature of the entity, including its application of accounting policies.
3. The entity's objectives and strategies and related business risks, as well as its risk assessment process.
4. The entity's measurement and review of financial performance.

5. The entity's system of internal control.

Short Answer 2-4 (10 minutes)

List the types of inherent limitations that prevent internal control over financial reporting from being effective.

Answers — Short Answer 2-4

1. Mistakes in judgment when applying internal control.
2. Breakdowns and fatigue. Many aspects of internal control are human processes that may function inconsistently over time. They may function at a very high level but not work perfectly.
3. Collusion between individuals may cause segregation of duties to break down, and internal controls may appear to function when they are not.
4. Management override. Senior management may have authority that would cause otherwise functioning internal controls to break down.

Analysis 2-1 (15 minutes)

The following audit report was issued by the CPA firm of Wong and Lee on a basic set of financial statements:

(0) We have examined the accompanying balance sheet of X Company as of December 31, 19XX, and the related statements of (1) income and retained earnings for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's (2) board of directors. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our (3) examination.

We conducted our audit in accordance with (4) professional auditing standards. Those standards require that we (5) plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements (6) are fairly stated. An audit includes examining, (7) on a detailed basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes (8) judging the accounting practices used and significant (9) decisions made by management, as well as evaluating the (10) completeness of the financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides (11) reliable evidence for our opinion.

(12) We believe the financial statements referred to above (13) present fairly, in all respects, the financial position of X Company as of December 31, 19XX, and (14) the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended (15) in conformity with promulgated accounting principles.

REQUIRED: If the wording of each numbered item is correct, enter OK. If the wording is incorrect, give the correct wording.

- (14) OK
- (15) in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

Analysis 2-2 (8 minutes)

Identify the specific generally accepted auditing standard for each one of the following descriptions.

1. The report shall either contain an expression of opinion regarding the financial statements, taken as a whole, or an assertion to the effect that an opinion cannot be expressed.
2. In all matters relating to the assignment, an independence in mental attitude is to be maintained by the auditor or auditors.
3. Sufficient competent evidential matter is to be obtained through inspection, observation, inquiries, and confirmations to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion regarding the financial statements under audit.
4. Due professional care is to be exercised in the performance of the audit and the preparation of the report.
5. The work is to be adequately planned, and assistants, if any, are to be properly supervised.
6. The report shall identify those circumstances in which such principles have not been consistently observed in the current period in relation to the preceding period.
7. The audit is to be performed by a person or persons having adequate technical training and proficiency as an auditor.
8. Informative disclosures in the financial statements are to be regarded as reasonably adequate unless otherwise stated in the report.
9. A sufficient understanding of the internal control structure is to be obtained to plan the audit and to determine the nature, timing, and extent of tests to be performed.
10. The report shall state whether the financial statements are presented in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

Answers — Analysis 2-2

4. Third General Standard
5. First Standard of Field Work
6. Second Standard of Reporting
7. First General Standard
8. Third Standard of Reporting
9. Second Standard of Field Work
10. First Standard of Reporting

Analysis 2-3 (10 minutes)

Data are verifiable when two or more qualified people, working independently, reach similar conclusions from an examination of the data. Verifiability is mainly concerned with the availability of evidence attesting to the validity of the information being considered.

What are the challenging aspects involved in verifying a client's allowance for doubtful accounts, the net realizable value of inventory and impairment test to fixed assets and goodwill?

Answers — Analysis 2-3

These are examples of how management and auditors must use judgment in determining how to apply generally accepted accounting principles. Determinations of the balances in these accounts require significant professional judgment. GAAP is inherently imprecise. Hence and audit cannot guarantee financial statement accuracy, and an audit cannot increase the precision of an accounting estimate. Audits can only provide a high level of assurance, reasonable assurance, that the financial statements are presented fairly in all material respects.

Analysis 2-4 (8 minutes)

The auditor's standard report on internal control over financial reporting has six main paragraphs. Listed below are excerpts from each of the six main paragraphs. Identify which paragraph each statement is from.
