108. How do small-business managers emphasize different management roles in comparison to larger business managers?

ANSWER: Managers of small businesses often see their most important role as that of spokesperson because they must promote the small, growing company to the outside world. The entrepreneur role is also more important because managers have to be innovative and help their organizations develop new ideas to remain competitive. Small-business managers tend to rate the leader and information-processing roles lower than managers in larger organizations.

109. Discuss the differences between the case view, the universalist view, and the contingency view.

ANSWER: These viewpoints relate to the applicability of management principles. The case view holds that every situation is unique; thus, there are no universal principles and one learns about management by experiencing a large number of case problem situations. Conversely, the universalist view believes that the same management principles will work across every situation in every organization. The contingency view is an integration of these two, that is, while there are no universal principles, there are common patterns and characteristics. The manager's task is to identify what principles will work when, based on an analysis of key contingencies.
